

SUTTON PLANS
BIG UNIVERSITY SYSTEM IN CITY

Plan Calls for Coeducational High School in Second Ward as Well as Junior College.

SECOND BOND ISSUE
INCLUDED IN PLAN

Would Create Municipally-Owned College Based On Cooperative Idea for Local Youth.

A great municipally-owned coeducational university, offering to boys and girls of Atlanta every educational advantage to be gotten in the educational field, was visualized Friday by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, in outlining for the first time in public his plan for establishment of a coeducational junior college in connection with the school system. A bond issue to supplement the one just passed in order that the school can begin operation as soon as possible, also was suggested by Mr. Sutton.

First reports were that Mr. Sutton's plan was to remove the girls' high school from its present site and to utilize this, the old city stockade and the Atlanta Normal school as a nucleus for the proposed college, which as Mr. Sutton disclosed Friday, would evolve into a great university of the type now operated by the city of Cincinnati. But the program as unfolded Friday, instead of calling for complete abandonment of the girls' high school, provided for a coeducational high school in which teachers studying at the college would assist in instructing students.

So that instead of losing the girls' high school, the second ward, in which the school now is located, would get boys students and all the advantages of a grade "A" university with the lapse of only a few years.

Reasons for College.

1. Other cities, including Augusta, Ga., now are operating high institutions of learning successfully and economically. These turn out men and women who are a credit to any great school.

2. Students are graduating from preparatory schools at a much earlier age than in former years, and these young people need the stabilizing influence of the home instead of attending large schools in strange cities.

3. The school could be conducted on a cooperative idea, thus placing in the reach of every boy and girl the advantages of a college education without any great cost to the student or his family.

City Builder.

4. Such a school in Atlanta would be a bulwark of culture and educational advancement for Atlanta and would act as a "city builder."

"If the junior college could be established in Atlanta, a complete college course curriculum could be added within a space of 10 years and, thereafter developed into a great municipally-operated university," Mr. Sutton declared. A bond issue for establishment of such an institution should be floated at least by the spring of 1928 in order that the school may become a reality by the fall of that year."

Great University Seen.

He declared that the establishment of a junior college for Atlanta would be the initial step toward a great municipal university, giving Atlanta students privileges of a complete college education. This, he said, should be completed within 10 years.

"A college education," Mr. Sutton said, "is almost prohibited to the poor man because of its high cost. If a poor boy wishes now to complete his college education, it is necessary to borrow from $2,000 to $3,000, and this is a great handicap to him."

"The program as outlined will be similar to that now used by many other cities throughout the country in a highly efficient and pleasing way. Already one Georgia city, Augusta, has instituted the program, and it is proving satisfactory."

MILLS WILL NOT RUN CHORUS MYSTERY
IN FARM DEPARTMENT KILLING PROBE
RACE, HE ANNOUNCES TO BE RENEWEDAl Smith and Coolidge
Chat Over Brook Trout

THEY TALK "SMALL TALK" FOR "THE LADIES"

Paul Smith's N. Y., July 16.—"Cal" and "Al" lunched and chatted together at the summer white house in the Adirondacks Friday.

The president of the United States and the governor of New York, outstanding figures of the nation's two great political parties, met with their wives at the Coolidge camp and ate brook trout caught by the president in honor of his guest.

They talked "small talk," these two who may have so much to do with making their nation's history in the present decade. "Because the ladies were present," explained Governor Smith.

Mr. Coolidge, it developed, talked about fishing. The president, who a short while ago declared he thought angling a "silly performance," has invited the governor of New York to his summer camp, caught a mess of speckled trout especially for his guest's Friday luncheon, and then entertained with small talk about fishing.

"He showed us his motor boat he used to catch the fish," Governor Smith said afterwards.

But President Coolidge was adamant on one score. He made good his intention of refusing to permit photographs to take a picture of "Cal" and "Al" together.

Every effort to persuade the president to change his mind on this subject failed. He simply would not have it.

The governor's arrival at Paul Smith's caused more excitement than anything since Mr. Coolidge first announced his intention of making his summer white house here.

"Al" wore a blue lounge suit, a black tie, a blue collar and a canary yellow shirt. He sent his favorite grey suit out to be pressed and changed to a more sedate garb for the luncheon.

The ban on big talk—political talk—was observed even by Smith, the most obliging of talkers. He was very doubtful if fish could be caught in the lake near the presidential camp until the president pointed it out, he said.

"And a fish jumped out just as we passed the president's favorite spot," chirped the governor. "Didn't think any were in that lake until then."

As for politics, the governor avoided questions concerning the probability of his 1928 presidential candidacy, nor would he say anything about the democratic platform.

Withdrawal of James H. Mills, president of the State Farmers' union, from the race for commissioner of agriculture, failure of "anti-Brown" candidates to agree on centering their strength on one candidate and a demand by Eugene Talmadge and John R. Irwin that the state democratic executive committee amend its primary rules to call for a majority ballot in the race for commissioner, were important political developments in Atlanta Friday.

Mills' withdrawal came as a surprise, as he recently had established headquarters in the Kimball house, where he had the support of Lem B. Jackson, former head of the state bureau of markets, and Fred Bridges, former assistant commissioner of agriculture. Jackson and Bridges recently retired from the office of the commissioner after Brown had demanded that they resign.

Mills said the state democratic executive committee had failed to adopt rules calling for a majority to win in the election where there were more than two candidates. He said this plurality plan was unfavorable to those opposed to the "Brown machine," and for this reason he was willing to retire. The statement was given to the press by Bridges, who stated that Mills had held no conference with any of the "anti-Brown" candidates and that his action was a voluntary one.

Other four "anti-Brown" candidates, Talmadge, Irwin, John Stewart and J. S. Shettleworth, held a conference at the Kimball house Friday afternoon but were unable to agree on a platform.

Mother Not Afraid.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, commented cryptically and biblically on the grand jury testimony of yesterday with the remark: "The fires of hell are burning, but we must burn ourselves out, but we must not be afraid."

This was the temple's only statement concerning yesterday's evidence that Mrs. McPherson had been seen in two places after she had been reported drowned and before she turned up at Agua Prieta, Mexico, with the story that she was kidnapped and imprisoned.

The second and legal barrage came from Arthur Veitch, attorney for the evangelist, who produced an affidavit made by Mrs. G. R. Humphrey that hers was the "blue sedan" which newspapers and police had traced along the Mexican border in the belief that Mrs. McPherson had traveled in it prior to her arrival at Douglas from points south in the Mexican desert June 23.

Machine Not Same.

The affidavit immediately became the object of scrutiny and attack by newspaper investigators who had been on the "blue sedan" trail. They said the machine was not of the same make which they had been seeking, that its license number did not tally with that of the "blue sedan" sought and that its movements, as reported by Mrs. Humphrey did not correspond with the movement of the car which had excited suspicion along the international boundary.

Kenneth Ormiston, Mrs. McPherson's former radio operator, whose name has been linked intermittently with the evangelist's disappearance, still remained unlocated today. He was reported to be in North Carolina, but H. D. Hallenbeck, another of Mrs. McPherson's friends and her former building superintendent, said that Ormiston was "lost far away" and could be produced in time for resumption of the grand jury inquiry next Tuesday.

Dennis Collins, garage attendant at Salinas, California, upset some of the official investigators' calculations today when he announced that contrary to a statement by Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan, he had not positively identified Mrs. McPherson as the woman who traveled with Ormiston through Salinas a little more than a week after the Angeles temple leader disappeared.

Charge Discrimination.

Charges of discrimination were made by both Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and W. D. Hoffman, Mrs. Peterson saying that book publishers will not be treated fairly in the selection of a history book if the report of the committee is adopted.

Mr. Hoffman took a stand against the selection of McNeal's "Modern Europe and Its Beginnings" as a substitute for "Early European History" by Hutton Webster. He declared that no conference had been held with city teachers in regard to changing the book and that it was selected by the committee "without consideration of other textbooks."

Defends Book.

W. C. Slate, a member of the committee, took the floor in defense of the McNeal book and asked that there be no further discussion of the measure as the recommendations of the committee had not been presented. On a motion by Mrs. Nelson discussion of the issue was postponed until the adjourned meeting.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, presented resolutions asking for funds for free textbooks for next year, amounting to $70,153.42, which request was granted by the board. The resolutions will be sent to city council for final passage, and Sutton was empowered to purchase all books with the exception of a history.

WIFE OF PREACHER INVOLVED IN STORY

Charges Claim Former Servant Was Accessory To Murders of Rev. Hall And Mrs. Mills.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 16.—Jealousy of a woman's love has reopened investigation of the Hall-Mills murder, which jealousy of a woman's love brought about.

This dingy, rather down-at-the-heel little New Jersey town on the bank of the Raritan seethes once more with all the sordid rumors surrounding the east's most sensational murder of a decade.

The widow of the Rev. Dr. Edward Hall, whose body, with that of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, a choir singer and wife of the sexton, was found under a crabapple tree on Phillips' farm on September 10, 1922, has been directly accused in an affidavit of having visited the scene of the double murder shortly before the crime was committed.

Plans Immediate Probe.

Prosecutor John G. Toolan, of Millersburg county, has announced that he will begin an immediate investigation, although the spot where the bodies were found is just across the line in Somerset county.

The affidavit which caused reopening of the notorious case was made by Arthur S. Rich, who seeks annulment of his marriage to Miss Louise Geist, a former servant in the slain pastor's home.

Rich alleges that his wife confessed to him that she had been Dr. Hall's sweetheart, and that she had been paid money to withhold information she had relating to the murders.

About 10 or 11 o'clock that night (September 14, 1922), respondent (Miss Geist), Mrs. Hall and one Willie Stevens were driven in Dr. Hall's other automobile to Phillips' farm by Peter Tumulty, the chauffeur. Rich's affidavit, which is on file in the chancery court at Trenton, declares:

Mrs. Hall went to New York Friday, when the storm aroused by discovery of Rich's charges broke, and visited her attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, who represented her when she was interrogated at the time of the murders four years ago. Pfeiffer advised her to remain in New York.

The slump in the franc, which attained today with accelerated speed. The pound opened at 200 and the dollar at 41.11 and the downward movement continued, the quotations at noon being 204 and 41.30. Official quotations at the closing of the bourse were 206.40 and 42.40, but after trading on the bourse closed the franc rallied slightly, there being trading at 202 to the pound and 41.53 to the dollar.

FRANCE FACES CRISIS OVER BRIAND'S DEMANDS.

Paris, July 16.—The finance commission of the chamber of deputies, by rejection of Finance Minister Caillaux's demand for virtual dictatorial powers, has brought France once more face to face with the possibility of a government crash.

Caillaux, defeated by the commission, has appealed to Premier Briand and the veteran government had appeared before the commission to pleasure to its members that the cabinet solidly backs the stand of the finance minister. A call for a vote of confidence by the chamber, deputy Caillaux's demand for virtual dictatorial powers, has brought France once more face to face with the possibility of a government crash.

Rejection of his demand for full powers in enacting financial legislation caused Caillaux to announce immediately that a vote of confidence would be asked Saturday. The commission's action was taken by a vote of 14 to 3.

BRIAND TO DEMAND

IN CHAMBER TODAY

Caillaux Will Push Fight For Full Powers in Dealing With Financial Situation.

Paris, July 16.—(P)—The finance committee of the chamber of deputies by a vote of 14 to 13 today, refused to approve the granting of full powers to the government to legislate by decree in the battle against the fall of the franc. Undaunted, however, Premier Briand and Finance Minister Caillaux decided to place responsibility squarely on parliament and the measure will come up for discussion in the open chamber tomorrow.

M. Caillaux informed the finance committee of this decision tonight, and announced also he would demand that parliament ratify, before the summer recess, both the Mellon-Berenger debt settlement with the United States and the debt agreement recently signed with England.

Suspension Urged.

"We do not seek to abolish the prerogatives of parliament," he said, "but in the present grave circumstances they must be temporarily suspended."

As for the American and British debt settlements, M. Caillaux stated, negotiations were going on in Washington in an effort to obtain some concessions. He had learned from members of the committee having the matter in hand that a communication was expected from the American government within a few days, announcing that it was not the intention to adhere strictly to clause seven of the Mellon-Berenger accord, concerning commercialization of the debt.

"But," he added emphatically, "both agreements must be ratified before the parliamentary recess, or all paths to foreign credits will be barred."

The slump in the franc, which attained today with accelerated speed. The pound opened at 200 and the dollar at 41.11 and the downward movement continued, the quotations at noon being 204 and 41.30. Norfolk Woman Tells of Wedding in Atlanta 3 Years Ago.

Norfolk, Va., July 16.—(P)—Married more than three years, Mrs. Martha L. Price, of Norfolk, has seen her husband only three hours in that period, she charged in instituting suit for divorce in court of law and chancery.

It was in May, 1923, when Mrs. Price, then Miss Martha Williams, visited Atlanta, and there one spring afternoon at 3 o'clock she was married to Young Price, then a student in a school of pharmacy, according to her complaint. They separated at 6 o'clock the same afternoon, she to return to her home in Norfolk upon his advice that it would be best to keep the marriage a secret until the end of his school year in June. She was 20 years old at the time.

Since then she declared she has not seen him. On two occasions, however, in answer to his appeals, she said she sent him checks for $500 and a diamond ring valued at $500. Price now is employed in Tampa, Fla., the bill sets out.

FRATERNITY ROW AT EMORY SCENE OF FOURTH FIRE

Epidemic of Fires Continues as Flames Attack Another Frat House Friday Night.

The fourth Greek letter fraternity house on the Emory university campus was fired in the still watches of Friday night.

And where the boys of fraternity row slept fitfully two nights ago after an attempt was made to burn the third house, they slept not at all Friday night.

Armed students and DeKalb county deputies followed bloodhounds over the dense woods about the campus, searching for what is believed to be a maniac with an incendiary complex who is determined to destroy every fraternity house on the campus.

Two Beds Destroyed.

The Theta Tau house is the last one. Three students, returning from the drug store on the campus, saw smoke belching from a rear window of the house about 10 o'clock Friday night. Other boys were summoned by cries of "fire," and the blaze was extinguished.

An open window of the room which was almost destroyed led authorities to their firm belief that the fire was of incendiary origin. Two beds were destroyed and the floor and walls of Seventeen Additional Members of Bankers' Trust Chain Taken Over By State Department.

The state banking department is cooperating with the state banks closed during the week as a result of the receivership of the Bankers' Trust company and will work with the banks in helping them to reopen as soon as possible, according to a statement made Friday by T. R. Bennett, head of the department. Seventeen other banks affiliated with the Bankers' Trust company were taken over by the state banking department Friday.

Developments in Atlanta in the situation Friday included the issuance of an order by Judge G. M. Howard, of Fulton superior court, that the grand jury investigate affairs of the Bankers' Trust company and instructing officials of the state banking department and receivers of the organization to have their records ready for presentation to the grand jury Tuesday, and a statement by M. SHERIFF HICKS
SAYS ED GLOVER
ADMITS SLAYING

Brutal Killing of Miss Smith and E. W. Wilson Last Saturday Is Believed Solved.

Two additional arrests were made this morning, bringing the total number of arrests in connection with the gathering of crowds around the jail to five. All were held without bond.

NEGRO CONFESSES TO DOUBLE MURDER.

Macon, Ga., July 16.—(P)—Ed Glover, negro, confessed to the brutal slaying of E. W. Wilson and Miss Hilda Smith, whose bodies were found at sunset Monday in the woods off Swift Creek road, according to Sheriff J. R. Hicks, Jr., who conducted the investigation. He made the confession late this afternoon.

Sheriff Hicks said that the negro, who is in Bibb county jail, has confessed to all the details of the double killing.

The sheriff added that the watch which Wilson wore on last Saturday afternoon, when he took Miss Wilson for a ride in a rented coupe, was found in a clump of bushes this afternoon where it had been hidden Tuesday afternoon by Glover. It was not until they confronted Glover with the watch as evidence that they had against him that the negro confessed to the whole crime, the sheriff said.

Double Moving Bodies.

The sheriff said that while the negro admits killing Miss Smith and her companion, he denies that he drove the car containing the two bodies out of the woods where the shooting occurred, across the road where they were found.

Pressed for information as to what became of the slippers that Miss Smith wore on the night she was slain, Glover, according to the sheriff, said that he carried those and an umbrella, a handbag, a lady's hat and a man's hat to the home of Alberta Pitts. He left those there, with the watch that was taken from Wilson, until Tuesday morning, according to the sheriff, and then became alarmed and fled from the scene after destroying everything except the watch.

Glover was arrested as a suspicious character on Thursday night, it became known, due to the fact that he had been seen in the woods where the double murder occurred a number of times recently, each time carrying a shotgun.

All through the night and again this morning the officers working on the case questioned the negro, but they could make no headway with their investigation until Sheriff Hicks pulled

BANKERS TO CONVEENE IN DETROIT IN 1927

Dallas, Texas, July 16.—(AP)—Detroit was chosen without opposition today as 1927 convention city of the American Institute of Banking, which closed its five-day 1926 meeting with a farewell ball here tonight.

San Diego asked for the 1928 convention and Denver for that of 1930. Officials said the 1929 meeting will be given to an eastern city. Selection of the next convention city and the election of officers constituted practically the only business transacted at the final business session. Paul B. Detwiler, of Philadelphia, was elected president succeeding Bruce Baird, of New Orleans, and P. R. Williams was elected Detwiler's successor as vice president. Neither was opposed. Four members elected to the national executive council were Charles D. Hayward, Kansas City; Thomas J. Nugent, Chicago; William B. Thurston, Jr., Baltimore, and J. Harold Welch, New Haven, Conn. Various committee chairmen appointed.

cerning the state's taking over the Calhoun highway from Comer to Athens.

EIGHT-YEAR PRISON TERM GIVEN DOTY

Damascus, Syria, July 16.—(AP)—Eight years at hard labor was the sentence pronounced by a court-martial today on Bennet J. Doty, of Memphis, Tenn., after he was convicted of "abandoning his post before armed rebels."

Doty, who was serving with the French Foreign Legion against the rebellious Syrian tribesmen, having enlisted under the name of Gilbert Clare, admitted after he was arrested that he was absent without leave, but explained he left his post while in a homesick mood.

The prosecuting officers demanded that Doty be given the extreme penalty of death, but the defense counsel, L. J. Gallier, made an eloquent plea for the American, asked for a suspended sentence. The court-martial, however, found that the offense of abandoning his post before armed rebels was proved, although it was agreed to allow extenuating circumstances.

Doty received the sentence stoically, remarking: "Well, that's tough, but for a man who was reported shot it comes easy."

He was especially eager that his father be informed and be asked not to worry. The acting American consul in Damascus, Mr. Gallier, made an eloquent plea for the American, asked for a suspended sentence. The court-martial, however, found that the offense of abandoning his post before armed rebels was proved, although it was agreed to allow extenuating circumstances.

HIGH TAXES FOUGHT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Darlington, S. C., July 16.—(AP)—The court room held a capacity crowd when today's gubernatorial campaign meeting was called to order. The candidates for commissioner of agriculture, James W. Shealey, incumbent; R. H. McAdams and Ben J. Pearman, speaking in behalf of their candidacies, stressed their activities for agricultural betterment.

"I am proud of my fight for direct taxes," said Carroll D. Nance, who professed his friendship for the farmer and small home owner. He mentioned his work for safeguarding bank deposits.

Calling for a "burial of high taxes" and continuing his attack on bureaucratic government, D. A. G. Ouzts offered his record for economy and constructive legislation.

John T. Duncan said "I have refused to join either gang of thieves, the leaders of both being accustomed to trading with our houses, scale wages and rob the people." He declared that the question before the state "is shall we live all free men or die all slaves to the power trust?"

The tax system in South Carolina is discriminating and unfair and detrimental to the business interests of the people, said Thomas H. Peoples, who declared that the system confiscates the laborer's hire.

John G. Richards continued to attack public extravagance and to champion farm relief and schools.

Urging a non-discriminating system of taxation, I. C. Blackwood again said that certain features of the present indirect tax were unfair.

Edmund B. Jackson championed law enforcement and pledged a business administration.

George K. Laney demanded rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws and public economy.

Declaring that income taxes, profits on luxury taxes collected from the wholesaler or the manufacturer should provide public revenue, John G. Mc-

Mahan said that visible properties should be free of all assessments.

The candidates will speak at Hialeah tomorrow, after which a two weeks' vacation will follow.

LA FOLLETTE OPENS FIGHT ON LENINROOT

Randolph, Wis., July 18.—(P)—Senator Robert M. La Follette in his opening speech in the Wisconsin campaign here today indorsed progressive republican candidates for the United States senate and state offices and criticized strongly the national administration and the record of his colleague, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot.

He said the slogan "Stand behind the President," is being found highly unpopular and that "the followers of the Coolidge business regime are being caught in the political under-tow."

"Those who lustily cried 'stand behind the president,' are now trying to explain their records to their constituents," he said, citing the nomination of Coolidge.

"The people of the middle west particularly have learned that standing behind the president means keeping the Esch-Cummins law and the Fordney-McCumber tariff law on the statute books, and that it means the stifling of all genuine measures for farm relief," he said. "It means keeping the United States in the world court, putting over the Mellon tax plan, turning Muscle Shoals over to

"The progressive candidates," he declared, "have subscribed to a platform which demands the repeal of the Esch-Cummings law, favors low tariff rates, denounces the Mellon tax plan, favors government operation of Muscle Shoals, denounces the foreign debt settlements in the interest of international bankers and declares unalterable opposition to the League of Nations and its court."

Senator La Follette approved the candidacies of Governor John J. Blaine, opposing the renomination of Senator Lenroot, in the September primaries, and others seeking nomination for state offices as progressive republicans.

BROWN OPENS RACE
WITH ROME SPEECH

Rome, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Relating intimate details of the break between him and his former lieutenant, Lem B. Jackson, and Fred Bridges, which he characterized as a "Judas act of treachery," Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown delivered the opening speech of his campaign for reelection at the Floyd county courthouse before an audience of supporters who completely filled the auditorium of the building. Commissioner Brown said that on the day before making his formal entry into the race this year he called Jackson and Bridges and other lieutenants into a conference, received their pledges of loyalty and then announced that he was resigning. He said that he was ready to touch the trigger to "fire the first gun of the campaign," but he was stopped by a traitor.

Superior court was adjourned at 11:30 by Judge James Maddox to permit Commissioner Brown to address the voters who had assembled from Floyd and adjoining counties. Judge Harper Hamilton, representative from Floyd county, presided. Judge Hamilton said that he had known Mr. Brown for nine years and had been a member of a legislative committee that investigated the department and all of them had reported Commissioner Brown to be competent, efficient and trustworthy. He also called attention to the report of the state auditor which declared the office to be properly administered.

Did Not Appoint Enemies.
Defending his appointment of more than 200 employees, Commissioner Brown said that the legislature had created these offices and that as long as it is his duty to fill them with capable men, even if 1,000 offices are created, "no enemy need apply." He expressed doubt that any of his opponents would figure a way to get three of them out of the race and leave one against me. He charged that his opponents are conspiring to divide the jobs in the department to be awarded by the one who is left in the race. The people of Georgia demand a square deal in every race, I defy any one of them to quit. The horses are entered, the judges chosen, and any man who quits the race will show a streak of yellow cowardice. Let them all stay in the race," he said.

Commissioner Brown reviewed the work of his department and his services for the farmers, showing that he had spent his life in agricultural pursuits, while his opponents are principally lawyers. "If this were a race for a judgeship they would laugh me out of it in a week," he said, "because I am not a lawyer."

Declaring that Charles S. Barrett had not been in his office for three years because he had not been permitted to take $30,000 from the department's fund to use in financing the organization of a cooperative cotton marketing association, Commissioner Brown characterized the head of the National Farmers' union as a passy-footed and side-stepper.

Referring to charges that he had used patronage and had lobbied for legislation, Commissioner Brown denied the charge and said that if trading in patronage and other evils had existed, they went out of his department when Judas, Cassius and Brutus went out.

Hoped for Peace.
Commissioner Brown said that the people had been kind to him for 10 years and he had hoped that he might serve one more term during which enemies would desert from their attacks so that he could devote his energy to the duties of the department, without having to be subjected to legislative investigations. That privilege has been denied, he said, and now he has gone into the battle to meet his enemies and the traitors who had sought to destroy him.

Answering the charge that he has filled the department of agriculture with his relatives, Mr. Brown said that he had two sons and one nephew, the latter an orphan whom he had given a chance in the world, in the department, as the only blood relatives whom he had appointed. One relative in the bureau of markets had been appointed without his knowledge. Commenting on his opponents, Mr. Brown said that Irwin, Talmadge and Shulworth are respectable men and lawyers, but not farmers. He ridiculed the idea of a lawyer being a commissioner of agriculture.

With dramatic emphasis, Commissioner Brown concluded his address by a recital of the details of the break between him and his lieutenants. "Right will prevail. The good people of Georgia will vindicate me with a bigger majority than I have ever before received. Jackson and Bridges had no right to differ with me as to policy, to quit and to fight me. But they had no right to wait until the election and then to stab me. They will not receive as large a vote as the most loyal vote for the other three, for I intend for the people of Georgia to know the truth."

HARRY C. FISHER
DIES AT NEWMAN

Newman, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Harry C. Fisher, 75, ex-mayor of Newman and prominent Georgia citizen, died at his home here Friday afternoon, after an illness that extended over a period of several months. Mr. Fisher was born in Camden, S. C., and came to make his home in Newman in 1870, taking the position of cashier in the First National bank here. This position he held until 1886, when he resigned to take charge of the Caweta Fertilizer company. In 1900, when this company was bought out by the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company, Mr. Fisher was continued in charge of the business. So satisfactorily were his services in this capacity that after a few years he was appointed division manager for the company with headquarters in Atlanta. He remained in this capacity until about four years ago, when he retired and returned to his home here to spend his declining years.

Mr. Fisher also was a director in the Atlanta and West Point railroad and at one time was mayor of Newman. During the many years of his residence here he always took a leading part in all movements tending toward the upbuilding of the community. He was a member of the Episcopal church, was a Shriner and a Knight Templar. Mr. Fisher was married to a Miss Miller, of Newman, who died in 1910. He is survived by two sons, H. M. Fisher, of Atlanta, and B. J. Fisher, of Newman. He also is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Paul Romare, and Mrs. Ender Parker, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held from the home on Jefferson street Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

CROP PROSPECTS FINE IN PERRY SECTION

Perry, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Georgia Belles and Elberta peaches are ripening together here this season and the shipments of both will be heavy until the close of the season.

No melons have been loaded here yet, but a few cars will be marketed next week. The crop of melons has been damaged by the melon bug, which is in practically all the fields. The corn crop is fine and peas, beans, potatoes and cane are looking well. The cotton crop has been damaged by the flea and boll weevil, but is looking better than at the same time last season.

OPERATOR OF BUS PROTESTS FEES

Columbia, S. C., July 16.—(P.)—Hovey Smith, Greenville bus operator, has brought injunction proceedings against the state highway commission to prevent collection of two license fees against buses, the motor vehicle license imposed on buses under an act of 1924 and the bus license tax imposed by the bus regulation act of 1925. Justice Coltrane, of Greenville, has issued a rule to show cause, returnable before the state supreme court on October 11.

RAISES IN SALARIES BARRED BY MUSSOLINI

Rome, July 16.—(P.)—Premier Mussolini, as part of his economy program, has prohibited increases in the salaries of employees of towns, communes, provinces and public institutions of every sort. He also has forbidden the employment of further workers by public institutions.

POSTMASTERS CHOOSE GREENVILLE FOR MEET

Charleston, S. C., July 16.—(P.)—Greenville was chosen as the meeting place for the seventh annual convention of the South Carolina branch, National League of District Postmasters and H. O. Jones, of Salley, was elected president of this organization at the closing session of the sixth annual convention here this morning. The convention opened Thursday and was featured by addresses of welcome to those attending. Congressmen B. B. Hare and Thomas S. McMillan spoke before the postal service met Friday. Senator E. D. Smith, the other senatorial speaker for this session, wiring he would be unable to attend. The congressmen urged the delegates to work for civil service for postmasters.

Other officers chosen at this morning's session were J. M. Byrd, Branchville, second vice president; T. J. Bolin, Neesee, second vice president; Paul G. Barnett, third vice president; and J. B. McMillan, Ulmerville, re-elected secretary and treasurer. Mr. McMillan was elected delegate to the national convention to be held at Salt Lake City, September 14.

DAVISON IN CHARGE OF WAR DEPARTMENT

Washington, July 16.—(P.)—G. Truhee Davison, of New York, who is 30 years old, was sworn in today as assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation. A few hours later he took charge of the war department and of the army.

Command went to him with department from Washington tonight of Secretary Davis who started on a week's inspection of citizen military training camps in the New England area. Mr. Davison's enlarged responsibilities, will terminate Monday with the return of Assistant Secretary MacDermott from an inspection tour which took him to the Pacific coast.

Davison's first act after taking the oath was to go to Bolling field for a 30-minute airplane flight over the capital. It was his first flight since 1917 when as a naval aviator student he was seriously injured in a crash. "I decided a little on the turn when I first took off," he said later. "It wasn't long though before the old feel of the control stick came back and from then on I got along fine."

Mr. Davison at the outset will familiarize himself with war department organization work, giving particular attention to air corps administration problems. Later he will visit outlying aviation posts and assume broader duties which the war secretary has in mind for him.

60 Days Granted Napier to Prepare To Meet Death

After declining to commute a death sentence imposed on Buncie Napier, convicted in Crisp county on a charge of assaulting a 12-year-old girl, Governor Clifford Walker Thursday granted the man a respite of 60 days, so that he could prepare to meet the death penalty.

Several prominent south Georgia people urged the governor to extend clemency to the man, while others, including members of the family of the victim, insisted that the death sentence be carried out.

Governor Walker issued the following order on the case:

After having carefully considered this application, no legal reasons justify intervention on the part of the executive and it is therefore ordered, That the application for clemency be and the same is hereby denied. The death sentence of the court shall stand for its full term, and the applicant may prepare for his death, it is so ordered.

Ordered, That a respite of sixty days be granted, and that the sentence be suspended until September 21, 1926, on which day the applicant shall appear to execute the original sentence of the court.

This July 15, 1926.

American Officials Worried Over Anti-U. S. Feeling In European Capitals

Resentment Follows Fall of Franc in France, Which Is Blamed on U. S. Debt Policy.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, July 16.—This government's debt funding policy is creating so much anti-American feeling in Europe as indicated in dispatches from foreign correspondents that officials here are disturbed.

There is resentment here also that democratic newspapers in this country should comment on the situation to make it appear that the administration by making excuses of France, has permitted Great Britain to outmaneuver it with a more friendly settlement that has the effect of concentrating all ill-will on the United States.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon left Washington today for Europe, ostensibly to motor on the continent and visit his newly married daughter in Rome. But it is hardly possible that the directing mind of the American debt funding negotiations can go into Europe when the debt discussion is at such a critical stage without discussing it with French representatives. Even here he has been persistently importuned with arguments and it is hardly possible to suppose that he will refuse while in Europe to see French representatives who will desire to present their case. Were he not prepared for this, he probably would avoid the embarrassment of having to refuse to talk with this country's debtors by remaining at home and foregoing until some more suspicious time the pleasure of visiting his daughter's new home.

French Debt Bonds. In response to Paris dispatches that Finance Minister Caillaux told the chamber of deputies the United States would send a note stating that article seven of the debt funding agreement would not be put into effect, Undersecretary of the Treasury Winston said that France will be given such written assurances if she desires it. Article seven gives the United States the right to sell the French debt bonds in the open market at any time. Treasury officials have said verbally several times that this would never be done.

"There is no chance of our taking advantage of article seven," Winston said again today. He pointed out that any modification of the agreement, however, rested with congress.

It is assumed that this was the subject of a conference today between Winston and the French charge d'affaires here.

sued a statement designed to answer the unfavorable comparisons that have been made between the American debt-funding agreement and the British arrangement and to refute the assertion that this comparison leaves the United States in the hard-hearted role of a relentless creditor. This statement declared, in effect, that the United States has canceled practically all of France's debt that was contracted during the period of hostilities, and that collection is to be made only on that portion of the money loaned after the armistice.

"If we compare the settlement of all of France's indebtedness to England with the settlement of her indebtedness to America, France has had generous treatment from us," the statement said.

U. S. Treatment Generous. "The American settlement embraces all of France's indebtedness and represents, in the opinion of the American commission, France's capacity to pay. For obligations incurred by France to America after the war ended, France owes us today $1,035,000,000. The present value of the entire French-American settlement, at the rate of interest carried in France's existing obligations is $1,081,000,000. In effect, therefore, America has canceled the obligations of France for all advances during the war, and France in the Mellon-Berenger agreement has undertaken only to repay the advances and obligations subsequent to the armistice. No other creditor to France has been accorded such generous treatment."

(France borrowed $4,025,000,000. Total payments to be made under the Mellon-Berenger agreement included interest during the 42 years is $6,847,674,104.17. There is no interest for the first five years, 1 per cent for the next ten years, 2 per cent for the following ten years, 2 1/2 per cent for the next eight years, 3 per cent for the succeeding seven years, and for the last 22 years 3 1/2 per cent.)

The British treated the banking advances and commercial obligations that the war stocks separately from the war debt proper, the treasury said. So that to draw a fair parallel, Mellon believes, it is necessary to point out that the American settlement includes a post-armistice advance, and that the money borrowed by France while she was still fighting was practically

However much American officials regret the anti-American feeling that has grown out of the debt settlement, they are not weakened in their position that the arrangement now pending is fair and not to be modified unless congress so desires. There is a feeling here that this government is being made somewhat a scapegoat for French politicians who have made reckless promises to their people that cannot be realized. No official would sponsor such a statement, but none the less this is the feeling here.

AMERICAN TERMS GENEROUS ON DEBT.

Washington, July 16.—(P)—America has given France more generous debt terms than has England or any other creditor, Secretary Mellon told the world today in a formal statement issued just before he departed on a vacation trip to southern Europe.

Mr. Mellon declared, the United States has cancelled all of France's obligations for advances made during the war and is actually getting a return under the agreement with France, of only those loans made after the armistice.

The treasury secretary explained that his sudden declaration was occasioned by "the erroneous comparisons in the American press of the British-French settlement and the American-French settlement."

It was regarded here as an answer to published reports from Paris that the new French government might seek modification of the American debt agreement as a result of the terms in the British-French settlement.

Mr. Mellon, who is chairman of the debt commission, already has served notice that the commission has washed its hands of the French debt when it signed the agreement with Ambassador Berenger and that it was now entirely in the control of congress.

Explaining that the United States and Great Britain had made their debt settlements with France on different lines, Mr. Mellon said "if, however, we compare the settlement of all of France's indebtedness to England with the settlement of her indebtedness to America, France has had generous treatment from us."

"No other creditor of France," he concluded, "has accorded such generous treatment."

INFANTRY CALLED TO FOREST FIRES

Missoula, Mont., July 16.—(P)—One-fourth of the area of the Kanku national forest along the border line between Washington and Idaho will be burned over within a few days, unless rain comes to aid firefighters, it was said at forestry service headquarters today.

Fire lines were lost yesterday on practically every large blaze in western Montana and northern Idaho, when high winds sent the flames roaring through the dry timber.

The Kanku forest embraces 657,530 acres.

Fire in the Blackfoot forest at the western boundary of Glacier park, has jumped the North Fork river and has covered 300 acres within the park. Infantrymen from Fort Missoula arrived today and were sent into the fire line.

NEGRO CONFESSES TO MACON KILLINGS

out the white gold watch and chain, with small pen knife attached to the chain, and exclaimed: "Ed we've got the goods on you."

"How'd you get that?" asked the negro.

"Never mind," said the sheriff. "Come clean with the story of how you killed this couple last Saturday night."

Then the negro, according to the sheriff, paused for a few minutes. He finally said that he was hunting in the woods and came up to the road just at dusk, carrying his shotgun. He said that he was not going to his home, his wife living at the scene of the old convict camp, not far away, but was going to the home of Albert Pitts, where he had been staying lately.

The sheriff said that the negro said that as he reached the road he saw the automobile, which had been turned around, and in which the couple was seated, chatting.

"The man in the car asked me what I was doing with that gun," the negro was quoted as saying.

"I was hunting rabbits," he said he replied.

Wilson, according to the negro, then said, "sweetheart hand me my pistol; I think he's up to something else."

The negro, the sheriff said, admitted that no pistol was flashed, but he said that he blazed away at close range at the head of Wilson.

It was a single-barreled shotgun of 16 gauge, the weapon having been found Thursday in the home of Albert Pitts.

"Why did you shoot the girl?" the sheriff asked the negro.

"I thought she was going to shoot me," the negro is quoted as saying. The sheriff reminded the negro that he had a single-barreled gun and that he had to reload the weapon, and if the young woman had wanted to shoot him, she could have done so quickly.

He agreed that such was the case, but he said that he had shot a shell into the gun and he shot a second time at her. He said she was seated at the steering wheel at the time and threw up her hands as he shot.

"The negro insisted that he walked away from the scene after gathering up a number of articles, the handbag and hat which were hanging at the front of the car, the man's hat which he saw was on the running board, the shoes, which he pulled from the feet of the young woman as they pro-

$1,000,000 School Building Program With Bond Funds Voted by Education Board

Junior High Construction Largest Item on List. Five Semi-Portable Structures Voted.

Resolutions outlining allocation of approximately $1,000,000 of the $3,500,000 bond issue for the Atlanta school system presented by W. W. Gaines, were adopted Friday afternoon by the board of education at an adjourned meeting. The program must be passed by the bond commission and by the city council before it is ready to be instituted.

The program outlined by the contract committee Wednesday night was adopted with a few minor changes. Outstanding appropriations of the final allocation are: Completion of the four junior high schools; construction of three standard school buildings; acquisition of additional property for four schools.

Junior High Program. Completion of the units for the four junior high schools will cost $600,000, as outlined in resolutions presented by Mr. Gaines. This will represent the major building program in "A" section of the funds allowed the school system by the bond issue.

The second largest item in the program will be construction of the three standard school buildings. These three new have portable buildings and construction of standard buildings will supply a need long felt in these three sections, it is said.

The program as mapped out will call for building five semi-portable schoolhouses, which will eliminate the five "fire traps," now located in these sections. The semi-portable buildings will be located in the following sections: Dimmock, Rockdale and Morningside schools.

Candler Park Dropped. On recommendation of Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, the Candler Park school was dropped from this list. It was mentioned in the original resolution offered by Mr. Gaines, but Mr. Sutton declared that this work could be placed in the second section of the work and completed just as quickly, as several "A" and "B" projects. He said that as soon as contracts can be let.

The final section of the program calls for acquisition of additional property for the Carrie Steele, Morningside, Candler Park and Hoke Smith Junior High schools.

No opposition to the program was voiced, and after explanation of the various items by Mr. Gaines, his motion to adopt the resolution passed. His motion was seconded by W. D. Hoffman, Mr. Gaines said, will care for all the work now pending and also for all old wooden buildings in the city.

At the conclusion of Mr. Gaines' presentation of his resolution, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson asked that group "B" of the appropriations be presented at once so that assurance would be given that certain work would be cared for immediately and to allow the second part of the work to begin by January 1, 1927.

Mr. Gaines stated that the outline of the appropriations for group "B" would be made at meeting of the contact committee next week.

54 PERSONS DIE WHEN DANUBE DYKES BREAK

Belgrade, Serbia, July 16.—Fifty-four persons, most of them trapped in roofs where they have lived since the recent cloudbursts, are dead as the result of an avalanche of water turned loose with the breaking of the dykes at Apatin and Neuzatz.

Miles of territory have been inundated following the breaking of these Danube dykes. Animals, houses and furniture have been swept downstream in the torrent of water.

The British county officers were notified late Monday afternoon by Bars Davis, a farmer of the neighborhood, of the finding of the bodies. Since that time, five men have been held in connection with the crime as officers continued a searching investigation into the affair.

Miss Smith was from Fort Gaines, Ga., and was employed by the Union Dry Goods company, a local department store. She was 20 years old and lived at the Y. W. C. A. Wilson, whose age was given as 22 years, lived on the Milledgeville road.

Wilson, according to the sheriff, was engaged to be married to a girl, and friends say he had bought the engagement ring last Saturday and intended it as a surprise to her, sending it to her on the motor trip that day.

The negro insisted that he walked away from the scene after gathering up a number of articles, the handbag and hat which were hanging at the front of the car, the man's hat which he saw was on the running board, the shoes, which he pulled from the feet of the young woman as they pro-used the aid of all the state's facilities in the attempt to solve the "shocking crime," urging swift and certain punishment for those responsible. He has sent his special investigator in Fulton county, here to collect information and observe progress of the investigation.

Feeling runs high in Canton at the failure of the police to prevent or immediately solve the mystery. Federal investigation is being urged, although it is reported here that federal agents had never entered on the Canton gang because underworld influence dictated differently.

Died Like Captain.

"He died like a captain leading his forces," says the Canton Daily News in a leading editorial. "A sacrifice to the cause he waged against vice and what he believed were efforts to corrupt the city government. His passing does not mean the end of the battle."

"It seems that upholding law and order in Canton is at the mercy of the thugs of the underworld," commented Mayor Swartz.

Mellett's steady hammering against the vice ring of northeastern Georgia has begun to tell. His paper owned by former Governor James M. Cox, had financed an investigation into the narcotic and "booze" running operations of the Canton underworld and two men had been sent to the state prison as the result. Mellett had defeated efforts to secure their early pardon and was leading a new attack upon the vice leaders. He received countless threats of personal injury unless he desisted, but these seemed to merely spur him on. Less than ten days ago he conferred with Governor Donahay and shortly before that with United States Attorney Berntsen in Cleveland. He was planning for a final drive when the bullets of the killers brought him down.

Nothing has so aroused the state of Ohio in years as the murder of Mellett. Public officials, civic leaders and prominent citizens are wiring in messages of sympathy and planning action to break up the evil forces that have been allowed to flourish so long in Canton. A political explosion that may have national results is possible.

Characters Rounded Up. Police are rounding up underworld characters in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Youngstown and other cities. The murderers hardly were amateurs, as they even guarded carefully against leaving any exploded cartridges on the scene. Fourteen shots were fired, some entering the house where Mr. and Mrs. Mellett were entertaining friends. With his hand on the garage door, Mellett was caught in a crossfire between the two gunmen, one of whom had hidden on either side of his backyard.

STATE TAKES HAND TO ARREST SLAYERS

Columbus, Ohio, July 16.—(P)—The state took a hand in efforts to bring to justice the assassins of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, late today when the executive office dispatched C. H. Sisson, Governor Donahay's personal investigator, to Canton to keep him informed of the progress being made to apprehend and prosecute the slayer.

Though Mr. Sisson was sent to Canton by the executive secretary, J. A. Meckstroth, without consulting with the governor, who is at his summer home at Indian lake, the governor in a statement from there, said the "state offers every facility at its command to assist Prosecutor McClintock" of Stark county. He declared punishment of those responsible should be a clause in the constitution of the state.

Declaring the murdered publisher having been a "martyr to a great cause," Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, tonight issued a statement, in which he said that Mellett had "given up his life fighting the lawless element which is not destroyed until we determine our government."

"This wanton murder should arouse every law-abiding citizen of Ohio," the attorney general said. "Every public official who caters to the underworld or permits organized lawlessness to exist in any form either for monetary considerations or in exchange for political favors, is a menace to the state and should be driven from public office."

It was revealed at the executive office today that Mr. Mellett had been more than an hour on July 1, relative to crime conditions in Canton, against which he was conducting an unrelenting fight.

He protested to the executive against release from the state penitentiary of Harry Turner and Harry B. Kilias, also known as "Harry the Greek," who are serving time for perjury committed at a grand jury investigation of crime conditions there some two years ago.

Clarke Committee Declines To Include Arnold's Name on Ballot

Athens, Ga., July 16.—(P)—Clarke county democratic executive committee in session here today voted against including James W. Arnold's name on the ballot as a candidate for judge of the western circuit which is composed of the counties of Clarke, Oconee and Walton.

The committee's action, spokesmen explained, was in compliance with the committee session, showing Mr. Arnold had been admitted to the Georgia bar in 1921.

Mr. Arnold in an address before the committee session, argued that the committee was without power to pass judgment on a legal question, contending the issue should be threshed out in court. His plea was overruled by a majority vote of the committee, however.

Jack Delaney King of Light Heavyweights

Many Thousands See Title Change Hands After Furious Bout

Old Rivals Stage Great Battle in Third Meeting For Championship—Challenger Makes Remarkable Comeback.

Ebbets Field, New York, July 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Jack Delaney took the light-heavyweight championship of the world tonight from Paul Berlenbach in a rushing, smashing finish that swept his foe before him in the last five rounds.

The French-Canadian challenger from Bridgeport, Conn., lifted the title with a victory that was as spectacular as it was decisive. He carried off the unanimous verdict of the referee and judges besides being given a wide margin on points by the big majority of ringside critics.

A capacity crowd of 45,000 paid approximately $475,000 to witness the spectacle. They hailed the new champion with a terrific ovation.

Delaney turned the tables on Berlenbach in a manner that upset all pre-battle predictions and he did it in spite of having fractured a small bone in his left thumb in the second round of the fight. It wasn't until the men had gone to their dressing rooms that Delaney's injury became known. There was no evidence of its handicapping him in the ring, for his left was used with consistent and smashing effect throughout the last five rounds.

Delaney's hardest blows failed to knock Berlenbach off his feet, but in at least three of the closing five rounds, he dealt uppercuts to the body and left hooks to the jaw that the champion a bit groggy. One of Delaney's smashes to the pit of the stomach in the 11th round really turned the tide in the challenger's favor, giving him an advantage which he was quick to follow up.

Yelled for Knockout.

Again in the 14th round, Delaney nailed Berlenbach on the point of the jaw with a swishing right. The champion sagged at the knees for a moment and grasped for the ropes, then fell into a clinch to save himself from further punishment.

Up to the 15th round, there was little or nothing to choose between them in a battle which found neither giving much ground, swapping blows on nearly an even basis.

Delaney had dropped four straight rounds and seemed willing under the champion's persistent rushes when he opened up a furious drive in the 15th. From that round on, the challenger took on new life. Where he had seemed tired he now was the picture of aggressiveness, outboxing, outgunning and outfighting the champion at nearly every turn.

Doggedly Berlenbach rushed in, occasionally sinking his deadly left to the body or connecting with Delaney's head, but the challenger always seemed master of the situation, cool in his defensive work and a sharpshooter with either hand.

Absorbed Punishment.

Berlenbach absorbed terrific punishment in those closing rounds, but he did it courageously. Sensing that the title was slipping from his grasp, Paul gamely charged his foe, plunging in more fiercely as he was stung by sharp blows to the head. It took all of Delaney's agility to keep out of the way of the champion's blows, but he avoided or parried most of them. Blood streamed from a bad cut over Berlenbach's left eye in the last four rounds, seeming almost to blind the champion at times, but he never halted his efforts to fight back.

In an eight-round semi-final, staged after the main event, Ted Moore, of England, received a decision over Jimmy France, of Union City, N. J. Julius Weissen, of Germany, and Tommy Walsh, of Dublin, fought a four-round draw in an added attraction. Walsh weighed 168 1/2, Weissen 165 1/2.

Bantamweights held the opening glare of the spotlight in the preliminary bout with Tommy Lorenzo, of New York, gaining a four-round decision over Billy Reynolds, of Jersey City, in a thrilling set-to. Lorenzo weighed 118 1/2 and Reynolds 120.

Mont Munn, Nebraska's Larruping Legislator, pounded his way to decisive victory over Gordon Munn, New York heavyweight, in four rounds but failed to score a knockdown for the first time in his meteoric career in metropolitan rings.

Munn floored Munn six times but the latter's gameness ended him in the end on his feet at the final bell in spite of the terrific punishment he absorbed. Munn weighed 208 and Munn 193 1/2.

Delaney Held Edge.

In the final analysis, however, Delaney held the edge in boxing craft and hitting effectiveness, besides displaying stamina to offset the champion's rugged aggressiveness.

The challenger conceded the champion a big advantage in weight also. Officially, their marks were 174 1/2 for Delaney and 166 1/2 for Berlenbach.

HOW JACK DELANEY BEAT PAUL BERLENBACH

ROUND ONE.

ROUND TWO.

They waited around looking for an opening. Delaney stung Berlenbach with a left to the head and then followed with a second body blow and the referee warned him for hitting low. Berlenbach walked into a left to the head and then took another to the same spot. Delaney using his right hand for the first time, almost floored Paul with a driving punch to the jaw. The challenger was backing up. They were sparing at the bell.

ROUND THREE.

ROUND FOUR.

Delaney staggered Berlenbach with a stinging left to the head. The challenger beat Berlenbach about the head a few times at close range. Berlenbach drove Delaney to the ropes but the champion clinched. Suddenly tossing away his caution, Delaney punched openly at Berlenbach's head and body in a furious exchange of blows and the champion drove him to a frantic clinch. A lightning right uppercut caught Paul flush on the chin. Another right to the body landed on the champion with a resounding thump. They exchanged lefts and rights to the 10th before the bell rang.

ROUND FIVE.

Delaney beat the champion to a right to the body. In attempting to clinch Berlenbach slipped, dropping the knee, but he was up immediately where Delaney backed up a right uppercut. Berlenbach ripped his left to Delaney's body, but the challenger came right back with a right uppercut. Berlenbach landed three lefts to the head and took a right to the body. Delaney missed a right to the head and Berlenbach punished him unmercifully about the body. Just before the bell rang Delaney staggered the champion with one of his famous right hand punches.

ROUND SIX.

Delaney opened up with a vicious right which all but floored Berlenbach. The champion clinched and scored to the body twice. Two driving uppercuts bounced off Berlenbach's chin. Another uppercut caught Berlenbach coming in, but he danced out of danger of Delaney's follow. The champion staggered Delaney with a left to the head but Delaney slowed Berlenbach with a short right to the head. The champion was playing to the body with his damaging left. They were waiting at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN.

ROUND EIGHT.

Both blocked right leads. Then Delaney got by Paul's guard to slip a damaging right to the tibia. With one arm locked Berlenbach peppered away at Delaney's ribs with his left. The champion caught Delaney in a corner and drove both hands to the head and body. The challenger appeared to be weakening under the strain of Berlenbach's extra punishment. Berlenbach's left brought fresh blood from Delaney's nose and mouth. Berlenbach drove a right to the chin coming in. They stepped out of a clinch as the bell rang.

ROUND NINE.

Delaney missed a sweeping right uppercut, then clinched. They both pumpe away at the body. Berlenbach slipped in sidestepping one of Paul's rushes and dropped to one knee but came right up. The champion appeared as strong as ever as he ripped his left to Delaney's unprotected body. They clinched and wrestled more frequently as Delaney appeared to be under the challenger's attack. Berlenbach drove a glance right to Berlenbach's chin but the champion countered with his famous left to the head, which hurt the challenger. They were clinched at the bell.

ROUND TEN.

Blood was streaming out of Delaney's left eye to the head. The round and the champion rushed him all over the ring, with both gloves carrying damage to the head and body. Berlenbach took Delaney's right to his glove but could not stop a left to the jaw. They traded rights to the head. The challenger was backing up at every charge. With a desperate leap Delaney stepped in and, with his left, drove his right to Paul's chin, but the effort was fruitless and he took a steady succession of blows to the body, backing up. They were fighting hard at the bell.

ROUND ELEVEN.

The challenger looked haggard as he came up. They swapped weak blows until the bell. Delaney tapped Berlenbach with his right but took the full steam of Berlenbach's left to his ribs. Berlenbach bounced a right to Delaney's nose but took a stinging right to the jaw in return. The champion was taking all his challenger could shoot without backing up. Berlenbach tapped Delaney's bleeding nose again and almost tripped up under Delaney's countering right to the body just as the bell rang.

ROUND TWELVE.

Two of Delaney's rights went wild before he drove his weakening right to Paul's chin. A stinging right uppercut hit Berlenbach and the crowd went again to its feet. Berlenbach held on. Two rights to the head followed by a faint kick of blood from Berlenbach's left eye. A wild right uppercut floored Berlenbach and his mark to the champion's chin. The crowd went wild, but the bell halted Delaney's grueling attack.

ROUND THIRTEEN.

The challenger came up with renewed strength. He pumped his left to Berlenbach's body and then shot a right to the chin, and the champion stepped in for another hit. Berlenbach appeared to be tiring. Another right to the body forced him to clinch. Berlenbach reeled under the power of Delaney's right to the head, but in desperation he drove a left to the ribs and head. A left to the head staggered the champion. Then Delaney stepped in for another stinging right. The crowd yelled frantically to the challenger but the bell stopped hostilities.

ROUND FOURTEEN.

Delaney, boxing cleverly, took Paul's left lead on his glove, then drove a lightning right to the jaw. A left uppercut floored Berlenbach and he grabbed the ropes to save himself from going down. It was a thrilling rally and the spectators cheered the effort. At close quarters Delaney slipped over a short right and the blood trickled down Berlenbach's face from his cut left eye. The champion was short with his left and Delaney planted a well-timed right uppercut on the jaw. Delaney sent over another underhanded right to the body as the bell sounded.

ROUND FIFTEEN.

They shook hands. The crowd cheered the challenger as he slapped the face with his left. Berlenbach stung Delaney with a right to the head and dropped his left to the body. Delaney missed with one right lead but a second landed on Paul's open jaw. Paul sent a weak left to the head and then clinched. Another right uppercut forced Paul to clinch. A left to the head and a ripping trip-hammer right to the body staggered the titleholder. It was a stirring rally. A powerful right, traveling only a few inches, caught Berlenbach over the chin and it almost floored him. They were punching hard at the bell.

FOREST HILLS BRIGHTENED UP BY MISS WILLS

Forest Hills, N. Y., July 16.—Appearing on the courts for the first time since she underwent an operation for appendicitis in Paris six weeks ago, Helen Wills, the American tennis champion, flashed the superlative tennis that has made her Suzanne Lenglen's only rival.

Home only a few days after her extensive trip abroad, the peerless of American tennis practiced on the courts of the West Side Tennis club here, the courts on which she will defend her title, for 20 minutes with Paul Heston, assistant professional of the club.

Despite a blazing sun, she played the same vigor which has carried her to the top of the tennis realm. Her service had its accustomed power and she was able to cover court with remarkable speed. Beyond a doubt the statement of Dr. Thierry de Martelle, the French surgeon who performed the appendectomy, that Miss Wills' recuperative powers were remarkable.

At no time during the practice did Helen show an inclination to favor her left-handed partner, but she did show the accuracy for which she is famous has not been lost by the six-week layoff. Time and again she shot the ball to the base line and on several occasions passed Heston with brilliant placements.

After the practice, she said she expected to be on the court again Saturday and would gradually increase the amount of her practice.

After the practice, she said she expected to be on the court again Saturday and would gradually increase the amount of her practice. Dr. C. A. Wills, of Berkeley, Calif., had wired her, advising her to proceed carefully.

Walter Johnson Driven Out of Box

For the second time this week the Yanks exhibited their fighting spirit by winning a game in the ninth inning after trailing by several runs, defeating the Tigers today, 4 to 3, by scoring three runs in the last inning. The Athletics beat the Browns in a double-header, 3 to 2, and 5 to 4. The Indians won their first game since the last part of the game to Love, right-hander, who was nipped for five hits and two runs in the last two innings.

McBee was in trouble right at the start. Niehoff revised his batting order and had Wilbur Good leading off. McBee should have a fast one and he lined it to center for a single. Niehoff batted second and hit one back to the box that bounded off the infield's shin for another hit. Good went to third from where he scored on Durocher's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates beat the Braves, 9 to 7, while the Robins won an 8 to 7 game over the Cardinals. No other National league games were scheduled.

Little Rock Stages Stiff Attack To Win By Count of 12 to 7

Niehoff and Brock Hit Homers To Boost Crackers Scoring—Rogers, Francis and Love Suffer From Onslaught.

Little Rock, Ark., July 16.—(Special.)—The Atlanta Crackers joined in the socking today to make an old-fashioned hitting match of the third game of the series, but the Travelers continued to do most of the socking and took the third straight from the champions of 1925, 12 to 7.

The Crackers did the longest hitting but the Travelers got by far the most, the home boys clubbing out 19 against 8 by the Atlantics. Johnny Brock and Bert Niehoff enlivened the affair by hitting home runs, but their extra long blows did not have nearly as much effect upon the outcome as three timely licks by "Bud" Clancy, who got a triple and two singles to drive four runs across the plate. The 19 hits the Little Rock boys got today made 49 hits for them in the games played with the Crackers.

The hitting of course, made it a tough day for the pitchers and both managers had three out there with only Martin Baylin, of the Travelers, showing anything that was effective. Manager Joe Cantillon tried to lick the Crackers for three days straight with left-handed pitching by starting Eddie McBee, but the Crackers seemed to have become accustomed to southpaws and gave the Indians quite a pasting until Mr. Joe got him out of there in the third inning.

Had Best Chance.

It was in that third round that Brock and Niehoff got their home runs and it was the one inning in which the Crackers had their best chance to win a game. "Ginger" Carroll showed the Crackers the first right-handed pitcher they had seen in the series and lasted until he lost the plate in the eighth when he walked three batters in succession and then took a walk for himself to let Baylin pull the home club out of danger.

Bert Niehoff, who started both previous games with southpaws, shifted to a right-hander today and sent in Tom Rogers. Ole Tom survived the socking of the Travelers until it got too severe in the third when he ducked. Ray Francis, one of the southpaws driven out previously in the series, was the first relief hurler of the Crackers today, and fared no better than on Wednesday. Francis pitched three and one-third innings, giving up three runs, and turned over the last part of the game to Love, right-hander, who was nipped for five hits and two runs in the last two innings.

McBee was in trouble right at the start. Niehoff revised his batting order and had Wilbur Good leading off. McBee should have a fast one and he lined it to center for a single. Forty-Six Members In Trot and Pace Club

With only 46 active members at the present time, the Schenley club of Pittsburgh has kept up its trotting and pacing merits for the past 27 years.

The Travelers took two in the fifth. Little Rock stopped in the sixth, the only inning in which the Travelers failed to hit. In the seventh singles by Whitney, Senne and Blackburn failed to score. In the eighth singles by Whitney, Senne and Blackburn scored a run.

The Crackers got one in the eighth and threw a fright into the home crowd. Senne was first up and singled to center. Niehaus flied out to Senne but Carroll walked Brock, Love and Good in succession, the last walk forcing a run. Baylin then displaced Carroll and the trouble passed over when Niehoff hit to Paynter whose throw to Blackburn forced Good at second after which Blackburn threw out Niehoff at first.

Blair drove in the final run for Little Rock in the eighth inning when his double brought over Paynter, who had singled.

Pyle Sails Today On Business Trip

New York, July 16.—(P)—C. C. Pyle, American sport promoter, and manager of Red Grange, leaves tomorrow for France to conclude details of the Suzanne Lenglen exhibition tennis tour to this country in September.

The promoter said today his main purpose in going at this time was to determine if Suzanne Lenglen was physically able to make the trip.

I understand she is suffering from rheumatism, but my last communication from her was favorable," Pyle said today. "If she is unable to make the trip now, I will arrange to have her arrive April 1 next year."

"I expect to return August 16 to open our exhibition matches, and will not compete in any tournaments."

Cook and Ridley Meet for State Golf Title Today

Gunn and Smith Lose In Semi-Final Play After Hard Battles

Watts Carries Defending Champion To 20th Hole and Drops Hard-Fought Match, 1 Down—Only Out-of-Town Contender Loses To Atlanta 2 Up.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Gene Cook, defending champion, and Chick Ridley, titleholder in 1924, both members of the Atlanta Athletic club, will battle for Georgia's amateur golf crown today in a 36-hole match over the Brookhaven Country club course. The morning round will start at 10 o'clock and the afternoon round at 2:30 o'clock.

Chick Ridley won his way into the final round by virtue of a victory of 2 up over Kayton Smith, of Augusta, a most formidable foe. Cook won his ticket into the championship round by defeating Watts Gunn, also of the Atlanta Athletic club, 1 up on the twentieth green.

The Cook-Gunn match was by far the most interesting of the entire play thus far and was witnessed by one of the largest galleries ever to follow a semi-final round in Atlanta. Included in the gallery of more than 600 persons were Bobby Jones, world's golf champion, who started his career by winning the Georgia state amateur crown at Brookhaven, in 1917; Perry Adair, runner up to Jones in 1917 and later southern and state champion; Lowry Arnold, president of the Georgia State Golf association, who acted as referee Friday afternoon, and many others.

Cook-Gunn Match. The semi-final round, after losing the first hole, Gunn fought a great uphill battle all the way. Only in the final few holes did he recover his natural game. Gunn's driving was far below its standard and only in a few instances did he keep the fairway. His approach shots were exceptionally good and his putting was on a par with that of Cook. Cook's great advantage lay in his consistent driving. Every ball was hit with terrific power and sailed straight down the fairway. His putting also was consistent. After enjoying a lead for most of the round, he went down to Gunn on the 17th.

He rallied with a perfectly-played par five on the 18th to square the match and held Watts even on the 19th. His drive was straight down the hole, Gunn underkicked a par three on the 20th, while Gunn was on with his second, but Watts found a trap. Gunn reached the green on a five, third, but took two putts for a five, while Gene's two putts gave him a par four and a ticket to the final.

Were Consistent. The lads were fairly consistent in their playing. Cook won the first two holes, traveling at a par pace, while Gunn slipped one over par on each hole. Gunn underkicked a par three on the 20th, while Gunn was on with his second, but Watts found a trap. Gunn reached the green on a five, third, but took two putts for a five, while Gene's two putts gave him a par four and a ticket to the final.

Gunn lost a chance to take the seventh hole when his drive hit a tree and bounced back into the rough. The drive was straight down the hole, Gunn underkicked a par three on the 20th, while Gunn was on with his second, but Watts found a trap. Gunn reached the green on a five, third, but took two putts for a five, while Gene's two putts gave him a par four and a ticket to the final.

Watts' card showed a 40 for the first nine holes, while Cook covered the distance in 38, two strokes over par. Cook won the tenth with a par three to become two up again. The seventh and eighth holes were halved, but Watts became one up when he scored a par four on the seventh. Gunn played poor golf on the eighteenth and took a six.

Chick Ridley played a steady round against Nunnally, his tee shots, as usual, featuring his game. His putting gave him an advantage in several instances. Nunnally drove well but his approach shots and short putts lacked the consistency that won for him as low medalist. He played Ridley on the even terms during the majority of the holes but fell by the wayside on the last nine, when Ridley rallied and played his best golf.

Smith-Winchell Match. Kayton Smith proved his glowing ability in eliminating Dick Winchell. Smith was in the rough many times but recovered well. Winchell lacked the driving power that kept him in the running Thursday and was constantly in trouble in the rough and sand pits.

Finals in the other flights will be played this morning and only 18 holes will be played in these matches. Results in Friday's matches follow:

THIRD ROUND. Championship Flight. Gene Cook defeated Mike Jones, 4 and 3. Watts Gunn defeated Dave Black, 1 up. 19 holes. Chick Ridley defeated Hugh Nunnally, 1 up. Kayton Smith defeated Dick Winchell, 3 and 2.

Second Flight. Scott Severely defeated Dr. Ben Jones, 1 up. 20 holes. Frank McNeil defeated Lewis Cutter, 2 and 1. A. O. Jernigan defeated Fred Jeter, 5 and 4. H. Hunter defeated Charley Black, 2 up.

Tenth Flight. George Converse defeated Rube Jennings, 2 and 1. Fred Jeter defeated E. G. Otley, 2 up. 22 holes. Harry Ansley defeated W. Weichbaum, 4 and 2. W. M. Oliver defeated Billy Jones, 1 up.

Fifth Flight. Milton Dargan, Jr., defeated J. L. Dickey, by default. 2. Epps Brown defeated John Bachman, 10 and 8. John Oliver defeated Dick Gerard, by default.

SIXTH FLIGHT. Cy Strickler defeated J. R. Hitch, 1 up. C. E. Freeman defeated Sexton Bailey, 1 up. 10 holes. T. Leonard defeated James Williams, 2 up. Richard Hickey defeated Fred Castor, 1 and 6.

BOBBY JONES TO REFEREE FINALS

Bobby Jones, internationally-known golfer and holder of the American and British open and American amateur golf championships, will referee the championship match between Chick Ridley and Gene Cook in the sixth annual Georgia state golf tournament today over the Brookhaven Country Club course. The morning round of 18 holes will start at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon rounds will be played at 2:30 o'clock.

Ridley-Smith Match. Chick Ridley, a veteran golfer from the East Lake Country club, and winner of the Georgia state amateur title in 1924 over Tom Prescott on the East Lake course, had another good round Friday afternoon on the semi-finals, and eliminated Kayton Smith, of Augusta, two up and one to play. Smith was the only out-of-town entry left in the running. Ridley started off with a cool, steady game and played each shot with care. In the first four holes, Ridley had an advantage of three up. He then increased his lead to four up, but as the first round was being completed Ridley weakened and at the turn was only two up.

Morning Rounds. In the morning round, Cook, Gunn, Ridley and Kayton Smith were winners. Cook easily defeated Mike Jones, 4 and 3. Dave Black, member of the Brookhaven Country club, carousing the match by one hole before losing the match by one hole. Ridley had a great battle with Hugh Nunnally, low medalist in the qualifying round, finally winning one up on the 18th green. Kayton Smith, the sensational young Augusta golfer, put Dick Winchell out of the running Friday morning, 5 and 3.

Cook played his usual steady game against Mike Jones and took advantage of every possible opportunity. His driving was straight down the hole, Gunn underkicked a par three on the 20th, while Gunn was on with his second, but Watts found a trap. Gunn reached the green on a five, third, but took two putts for a five, while Gene's two putts gave him a par four and a ticket to the final.

Dave Black, playing on his home course, had the better of Gunn practically all the way and only in the final few holes did he recover his natural game. Gunn's driving was far below its standard and only in a few instances did he keep the fairway. His approach shots were exceptionally good and his putting was on a par with that of Cook.

Watts' card showed a 40 for the first nine holes, while Cook covered the distance in 38, two strokes over par. Cook won the tenth with a par three to become two up again. The seventh and eighth holes were halved, but Watts became one up when he scored a par four on the seventh. Gunn played poor golf on the eighteenth and took a six.

Chick Ridley played a steady round against Nunnally, his tee shots, as usual, featuring his game. His putting gave him an advantage in several instances. Nunnally drove well but his approach shots and short putts lacked the consistency that won for him as low medalist. He played Ridley on the even terms during the majority of the holes but fell by the wayside on the last nine, when Ridley rallied and played his best golf.

Smith-Winchell Match. Kayton Smith proved his glowing ability in eliminating Dick Winchell. Smith was in the rough many times but recovered well. Winchell lacked the driving power that kept him in the running Thursday and was constantly in trouble in the rough and sand pits.

Finals in the other flights will be played this morning and only 18 holes will be played in these matches. Results in Friday's matches follow:

Principals in the semi-finals of the sixth annual Georgia state golf tournament. Kayton Smith, of Augusta, who played Chick Ridley, East Lake golfer, and lost 2 down, is shown at the extreme left. Next is Watts Gunn, one of Atlanta's greatest golfers, who was beaten by Gene Cook, defending champion, who is shown next to Gunn. Chick Ridley is shown on the extreme right. Gene Cook and Chick Ridley meet today to determine the state champion.

Fielding Wallace, of Augusta, Ga., was reelected vice president and Lloyd Parks, of Atlanta, was again chosen as secretary. Garland Jones, of Newnan, and Major John S. Cohen were elected as vice presidents of the association.

Daniel, who also has moved away. Other members of the board of directors are: Mayor Robert M. Hull, of Savannah; William Dismuke, of Columbus; Jack Oliver, of Valdosta; Garland Jones, of Newnan; Bob Hightower, of Thomaston; S. A. Michael, of Rome; Fielding Wallace, of Augusta; Cason Callaway, of LaGrange; and Tom Paine, R. H. Martin, Keith Conway and C. V. Rainwater, of Atlanta.

Williams Nine Has Unsuccessful Year

The baseball season of 1926 could not be described as highly successful at Williams college, although Coach Bower's team played excellent ball at times. The team won two games out of 21 played.

CONSECUTIVE ONES MADE BY GOLFERS

Blowing Rock, N. C., July 16.—(AP)—Both members of a two-some made consecutive holes in one on the Green Park golf course here today.

Robert Mehane, of Blowing Rock, drove his ball 108 yards and it rolled into the hole. The perfection of a few strokes from tee to green suitable to all types and conditions of golf courses, and the determined practice of them until they can be produced with a minimum of effort, have been the few best fitted for the task.

HAGEN'S CRITICISM WAS GOOD ADVICE--WETHERED

London, July 16.—(AP)—Roger Wethered, former British amateur champion, believes that Walter Hagen gave British golfers good advice in his recent interview, even if he didn't say they were "too gosh darned lazy." Wethered, who tied Jack Hutchinson for the British open title in 1921 and lost on the playoff, says judging from the manner in which Hagen's comments on British golf have been received in England, Hagen's criticism apparently is unwelcome.

"Various excuses have been offered to explain our British defeat," he says, "excuses are only another sign of weakness, and results stare us in the face."

Less Efficient. "I am afraid the truth of the matter is that we are less efficient golfers than the Americans, and the inclination of other reasons for our failure does more harm than good. It remains for us to make a fresh start before we can hope to win back our lost laurels."

Wethered thinks that the British golfers as a class undoubtedly have suffered from the natural reaction which followed the tremendous outburst of energy during the long years of the great war, but says the time has now come to make an effort to discover anew means of making

Britain's position unassailable in the playing of the ancient game. "We don't practice at golf in the sense that practice must become hard, regular work," he says. "It is a distasteful business—littered to our eyes—frame of mind, but it is essential. Although we pretend to hate the idea of specializing, we can't overlook the fact that our great golfers have been specialists and we shall never recapture our championships until the few best fitted for the task make it their duty to do so."

A series of good rounds in friendly matches or a success here and there in a tournament does not mean anything. The perfection of a few strokes from tee to green suitable to all types and conditions of golf courses, and the determined practice of them until they can be produced with a minimum of effort, have been the few best fitted for the task.

"Most of us are just as anxious to come out on top as Hagen is, but we leave too much to chance. Instead of careful practice, we rely upon inspiration."

Take Hagen's advice, counsels Wethered. Cultivate not only the will to win at golf, but also the way to win.

Archaeologists Find New Wonders of Maya People

ONE "WARD" OF ANCIENT CITY UNCOVERED

Washington, July 16.—New wonders turned up by the archaeological pick in ruins of the Maya civilization in Yucatan, announced here today, throw further light upon the life of the high-cultured Indian people who formed the first "United States of America" more than nine centuries ago, before the white man discovered America.

A study of this civilization, which excelled the Egyptian in many respects and was comparable in some degree to that of the Greeks, is of vast importance to Americans, and are now turning their attention to this almost untouched field, original American, in their own backyard, instead of in part by the recent explorations in Egypt.

Experts of the Carnegie Institute, who are now rebuilding the Maya city of Chichen Itza in northeastern Yucatan, have found beneath the monumental "Temple of the Warriors" another temple built by an older civilization, similar to the layers of civilization uncovered some years ago about ancient Troy. It can be imagined that this discovery brought the same bated breath archaeologists experienced when they came upon new wonders in the tomb of King Tut.

According to the announcement made here today, these older ruins were covered up to prevent damage by the seasonal rains which have been so destructive to the ruins. They were resumed next year. Up to the present time, only one "ward" in the city had been uncovered and its pieces put back together in the manner of a giant puzzle. When the work is completed some years hence, the surface has just been excavated, rescued once more from the forests which covered it over when its inhabitants disappeared centuries ago.

The civilization continued for about 200 years longer, and then the Spaniards came, and the civilization disappeared. The ruins of the Maya civilization were found in 1842, and the ruins of the Maya civilization were found in 1842, and the ruins of the Maya civilization were found in 1842.

British Brewers Begin Opposition To Andrews Plan

Shipping and brewing men in Great Britain are beginning to rally their forces in opposition to the discussions now going on between British officials and American representatives of the public utilities commissions of the southern states.

The shipping interests are aroused over proposals to give American revenue cutters certain latitude in British territorial waters, especially in the Bahamas. At the same time the brewers and distillers, whose spokesmen in the house of commons in London are John Grotton, conservative, of a well-known family of brewers, are watching developments closely.

The attitude of critics of the present conferences is not considered very serious in some quarters, in others it is felt that the conferences may yet have an echo in parliament. This latter feeling is particularly strong in political circles.

Delightful Summer Affairs Afford Social Entertainment

The mid-summer season is filled with entertainments of a diversified nature. The attractive clubs and hotels offer interesting escapes from boredom during the summer months. A swim in one of the lakes or pools, followed by cooling drinks, served on velvety green terraces, surrounded by bright summer flowers passes away the afternoon hours in a most delightful fashion. At night, there is dining and dancing on club roofs and terraces to while away the evenings in a most charming manner.

These amusements are always more in evidence over the weekend, when a more or less holiday spirit prevails. Those who are remaining at home this summer take Saturdays and Sundays to "play in" and so a joyous and wholesome atmosphere dominates the social activities. There will be the regular dinner dances at the Piedmont Driving club and Atlanta Athletic club, and the tea-dance at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Visitors who will be complimented today at various affairs are Mrs. Straton Hard, of Miami, Fla., the guest of her mother, Mrs. Walker Dunson, and Mrs. Burch Bland, of Miami; Miss Peggy Kinney and Mr. and Mrs. Goldsborough Williams, of Baltimore, Md. Miss Elizabeth Lowe, a bride-elect, who has been extensively entertained at pre-nuptial parties, will be entertained by Miss Bessie Mitchell at her home on Northwood avenue.

"Associations and friendships formed in the legion are much like those of college boys," he continued. It was at this point that he reviewed activities and operation of large department stores, linking up why the members should become conversant with such things. He was given much applause at the conclusion.

HARTSFIELD ASKS WOULD-BE MAYORS TO STATE ISSUES

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, widely mentioned as a probable candidate for mayor, Friday issued a statement in which he called upon aspirants for the post to declare themselves on definite platforms between now and August 12, the date of the closing of the entry lists.

Five candidates have announced as follows: I. N. Ragdale, Charles M. Ford, R. L. Huff, J. Allen Ford and B. Dixon Hall. Only Mr. Ford and Mr. Ragdale have qualified to date.

Mr. Hartsfield's statement follows: "There are several candidates in the field for mayor. Up to this time none of them has made public his platform or what his policies will be if elected."

"No hidden motive and with good will to them all, allow me to suggest that before the lists close on August 12, the people are entitled to know just what they may expect from the candidates asking their support."

"Upon the next mayor will devolve many heavy responsibilities. Various and intricate problems will arise in connection with the bond issue, and especially the new city hall and the conduct of the various departments and industries looking over the Atlanta territory with a view to locating here will require his best ability and diplomacy. He should be the chief salesman of Atlanta and the leading exponent of its advantages and progress."

"Also a sound and rigid financial policy must be followed if the eight-million-dollar bond issue, together with the increasing demands of the various departments occasioned by Atlanta's growth, are to be met without incurring large deficits. The incoming mayor must know how to handle the various demands upon the treasury and know how to separate essential appropriations from vote-catching chaff."

"The next two years are most vital to Atlanta. The pendulum is swinging toward a period of prosperity and growth. The next mayor should set forth such policies as will insure Atlanta's future progress."

THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace, of 1547 Safford Ave., Columbus, Ohio. "How many women have found themselves in this same condition! How many women have fought bravely on, day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "I just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling battle to cheer her on, no waving banners.

Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health.

Farm Receipts Show Increase, Survey Shows

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, July 16.—Farmers are a little better off financially in 1926 than in any of the preceding three years, according to the department of agriculture, which made public today the results of a survey of farm receipts and expenditures.

Reports from 15,330 farmers in all parts of the country show an average net return of $1,267 for those farms. The average size of the farms was 304 acres, with an average investment of $17,140.

Average gross receipts were $2,551, consisting of $933 from crop sales, $807 from sales of live stock, $585 from sales of live stock products and $226 from miscellaneous products.

Average current cash expenses totaled $1,477, consisting of $386 for hired labor, $242 for live stock bought, $244 for feed bought, $89 for fertilizer, $47 for seed, $191 for taxes, $119 for new machinery and tools, and $179 for miscellaneous items.

Receipts less cash expenses averaged $1,074, in addition to which the farmer used home-grown food products valued at an average of $283. The value of fuel and house rent was not reported. On the other hand, no average was reported for the expense items for the labor of the farmer and his family, which was estimated by the farmers at an average value of $738.

The farmers reported an increase of $223 in inventory values, which figure added to the cash balance of $1,074 made a farm net return of $1,297. Out of this amount $225 was paid as interest on indebtedness and $121 was spent for improvements.

The farm net return of $1,297 for 1925 compares with $1,205 for 1924, $1,033 for 1923, and $917 for 1922. Both receipts and expenses have increased each year during the four-year period.

"No broadcaster," he said, "wants to go on a wave length which will cause interference with other stations. The stations which are long length interfering, according to reports, with other stations."

"From a legal viewpoint," said Mr. Klugh, "actions which appropriate wave length assigned to another are raising a very serious question of property rights. It will not be surprising to see many law suits started to protect stations' rights in this practice continues. There is little doubt in my mind but that such cases could be won easily and the offending station would no doubt be enjoined from broadcasting."

L. A. Nixon, secretary of the National Radio Trade association, said he thought the situation would cure itself.

Elder V. V. Sims, of Valdosta, Ga., preached Friday morning and night at Glazener Memorial church, on East avenue. Elder Sims, who organized the Glazener church, served there as pastor for five years before removing to Valdosta.

Time Savers

The great American instinct is to save time
—a lot of time—and then some more time.

In the big affairs and the little things of life, time seems to have taken on a mythical value—to be more precious to us than money.

We must have limited trains, special editions of our papers—and quick lunches. The institutions and utilities that we admire are the big time savers—the telephone and telegraph, our railroads and electrical conveniences.

There is another great time saver in the lives of the people of Atlanta—the service given by the classified section of The Constitution. When it comes to immediate action and eleven-hour accomplishment—when time is money—the classified section of The Constitution is in a class with the other big time savers of everyday life.

Read these ads every day—they will save your time and money—and when you want quick action, call WALNUT 6565 and ask for an ad taker.
